

Caatinga: molecular identity studies

Raquel Giordani (UFRN)

Our researches focus on obtaining transcriptome, proteome and metabolome data from Brazilian medicinal plants widespread in the Caatinga biome, as well as carry out the bioprospection of bioactive alkaloids. We hope to contribute to the characterization of non-model plants, thereby creating a platform for plant molecular studies in little known biomes with unique features.